VMR Plays Trains, Not Construction: A Welcome Weekend Away

Brian Nunn (Pop) is beaming from ear to ear with his precious cargo on board.

VICTORIAN MINIATURE RAILWAY MEMBERS had a great Easter weekend getaway when they attended the Australian Association of Live Steam Annual Convention in Wagga Wagga.

VMR Club President Andrew Mierisch said, 'This has been our first opportunity to share the hobby with some of the newer VMR members who reside in Harcourt. Brian Nunn certainly enjoyed the experience and was truly impressed with what awaits the VMR. He enjoyed driving several models, including taking his daughter Sarah, partner Ben and his two new grandkids for a ride. Don't tell anyone, but we are pretty sure Buzz is hooked!'

Like most clubs and associations, the miniature trains fraternity also has national annual events. At Easter the governing body, Australian Association of Live Steam (AALS), holds an annual convention. This year it was NSW's turn to host the gathering, which was held at the Wagga Wagga Society of Model Engineers facility in the town's Botanic Gardens.

Andrew said, 'With COVID rules relaxing, it was exciting to get out again.'

Harcourt Progress Association on Track

With the Plan Harcourt process and the Roundabout Redesign almost completed, the HPA continues to proceed at a quick pace. This month we have been occupied by preparations for the Gather Harcourt and the Railway Station Project.

Gather Harcourt will take place on Saturday 28th of May, 1 pm to 4 pm, at James Park. The event will broadly follow the same format as the previous edition with live music, the HPA Bar, fantastic food and market stalls. There will be a seasonal aspect this time – with apples currently being harvested there's sure to be some mulled cider and other autumn treats.

VicTrack generously extended the opportunity of a site inspection at the Harcourt Railway Station to the HPA this month. Three HPA subcommittee members attended with representatives from Mount Alexander Shire Council.

The site was a hive of activity when we arrived with tens of tradespeople busily repairing flooring, walls and paving, plumbing, hanging doors and much more. The site foreman, chief architect and builder brought us around the site on a tour speaking to their work as we went. The group was very impressed. A huge effort has been put into the research and careful preservation of the original architectural features from the station's opening in the 1860s. At the same time, modern technologies such as insulation, cabling, and air conditioning have been discretely added. The building has great character and charm; no doubt it will be a wonderful addition to Harcourt's community infrastructure.

The operating model which will be pursued at the railway station post construction is the Community House model. This is a well understood and successful model for such buildings across Victoria and is compatible with the lease terms from VicTrack. The Railway Station Working Group, with members from HPA and Council, continues to work on finalising the lease agreement and management structure for the project.

See www.harcourtprogress.org.au for more information.

This will be the main entry to the station building and will be a disabled access.

ANZAC Day 2022

We are fortunate that in Harcourt our ANZAC Day ceremony begins with traditional music from the Castlemaine Highland Pipe Band. The pipes and drums never fail to move those in attendance. They set the scene for the sombre ceremony as residents march behind the band from the Heritage Centre to the Stanley Park cenotaph.

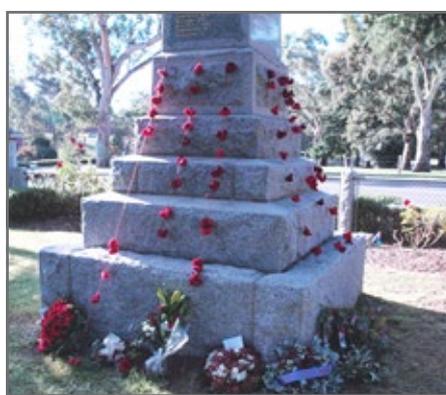

The crowd was larger than in previous years, while the message was the same: sorrow over loved ones lost in wars, particularly WWI and WWII, but also subsequent wars, and the honour paid to those who gave their service and sometimes their lives. George Milford led the service and he also mentioned those who have returned home from service unwell, with physical and mental scars. Reference was made to the current war in Ukraine.

The wreath laying was followed by a Lament played by the Highland Pipe Band. The Ode to the Fallen was led by the president of the Castlemaine sub-branch of the RSL, John Whiddon. The gathering observed the minute's silence, bookended by the Last Post and Reveille. The words, 'Lest we Forget' were spoken in hushed voices. The ceremony concluded with the New Zealand and the Australian National Anthems.

Janine Culgan wears her husband's medals with two clasps and one bar. From the left is the Kuwait Clasp above the Australian Active Service Medal (AASM Australian Active Service Medal), secondly the medal also with a Kuwaiti Clasp is the (ASM-Australian Service Medal), next the Defence Force Service Medal with a bar is for service of 20 years and fourth from the left is the Defence Medal for over 6 years' service. On the right is the Liberation of Kuwait Medal presented by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia which struck the medal for those Australian servicemen and women who served in the Persian Gulf War 1991. In 1998 the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia officially offered their medal to the Australian Government which accepted the offer. The Saudi Arabia medal for the liberation of Kuwait is the only foreign award recognising this conflict which has been officially approved by the Australian Government, for wear by eligible defence recipients of this medal.

Harcourt resident, Kirshy McAinch served in the Australian Navy. Her longest deployment was as part of the UN Peacekeeping Force to East Timor, where she was in the war zone for over 42 days. Her medals and clasp from the left: the clasp for service in East Timor, which is above the Australian Active Service Medal. Next is the UN medal for the International Force (in) East Timor and lastly is the Defence Medal for service over six years. On her lapel Kirshy has the Returned from Active Service Badge. Kirshy said, 'At 19 years of age, while serving in East Timor, I was on the bridge of HMAS Adelaide with the Captain present, when we identified an Indonesian submarine. The Captain contacted Australian government officials and made some careful judgements about the situation. Thankfully, we avoided any engagement with the submarine.'

Members of the Nicholson family stand at the Vietnam Memorial. Ed Nicholson (centre) is a Vietnam veteran. The extended family took the opportunity to get together on ANZAC day for the first time in two years.

In Vietnam, Ed was involved in the Battle of Coral Balmoral which began on 12th May 1968 and lasted until 6th June 1968. It was the longest engagement of the war. The 50th anniversary was marked on May 13, 2018. To mark the anniversary, The Unit Citation for Gallantry was awarded to the veterans who were engaged in the Battle of Coral Balmoral. Ed is wearing the Citation on his lapel above his medals.

Harcourt CFA Burn-Off out of Control

The end of fire restrictions in April throughout most of Victoria saw brigades turning out to numerous 'Burn-off, Out-of-Control' incidents. This culminated in the CFA sending out social media messaging on Easter Sunday advising against commencing any planned burning, due to a spike in private burns getting out of control during that day.

When burning off, it is vital that your burn-off is safe and legal. Proper planning is the first step before lighting up.

- Have you checked council local laws regarding when and where you can burn off?
- Have you checked fire restrictions and registered your burn-off by calling 1800 668 511 or online at www.firepermits.vic.gov.au?
- Have you checked the current and forecast weather?
- Do you have an adequate water supply?
- Are sufficient adults present to monitor and assist in the burn-off?
- Have you cleaned up around the burn site?
- Have you notified your neighbours?
- Have you put it out properly when finished?

The answers to these questions will assist you in planning for a safe and legal burn. And remember that if it does go wrong, do not hesitate in calling 000. If you are thinking, 'Is my burn-off out of control?', it probably is!

After a relatively quiet fire season, April saw the brigade respond to six callouts. The first two responses for the month were to burn-offs out of control; one was in our brigade area (re-ignition from a previous burn) and one to Sedgwick brigade's response area in Sutton Grange. We also attended an abandoned campfire on Mount Alexander where a large log had been left burning. It is very dismaying to have to attend this type of fire. It exemplifies a number of problems: not only was the campfire bigger than required, but also, those responsible were not prepared or able to put the fire out when they had finished. In hotter weather, this fire could have had disastrous effects to Mount Alexander and surrounds.

The brigade attended an accident on the Calder Highway at Ravenswood South where a small truck had become entangled in the wire rope barrier after veering off the road.

We were called to support the Castlemaine brigade to a possible structure fire. The smoke alarm was operating at the premises. On entry, the Castlemaine crew did not find fire but, instead, found flooding from a malfunctioning toilet, which had been broken for quite a few hours. This would have gone on unnoticed and for longer except that the water eventually found its way to the fire alarm and set it off. Ultimately, our brigade was not required to attend.

Our last turnout was to another motor vehicle accident on the Calder Highway at Ravenswood South.

Remembering the Fallen

Anzac Day is when we stop and remember those who have lost their lives defending our country in the various wars fought throughout the world. Similarly, each year there is an Annual Firefighter Memorial Service held in Victoria, when we pause, remember and honour the 80 firefighters who have lost their lives in the line of duty. The service is held on the closest Sunday to International Firefighters' Day and is a global event started by CFA members in 1999, following the tragic death of five firefighters in Linton the previous year. This year's memorial service, held in Churchill, marked the thirty-fourth event.

As the weather is changing to cooler temperatures, remember to prepare your home for winter: practice your Home Evacuation Plan and stay safe.

Art Auction and Trek to Support Refugees

I have organised an Art Auction on 14 May to raise money for an organisation called Act for Peace, which supports refugees and displaced people around the world. (Please see the poster on this page.) There is a group of us around Australia doing this. In August, we will meet up in Alice Springs where we will begin our six-day Trek for Refugees along the Larapinta Trail in the McDonald Ranges, west of Alice Springs. We will be walking in solidarity with refugees and displaced people who often have to walk hundreds of kilometres to find refuge and safety. We will be doing a supported walk of just over fifty kilometres. Walking this trail is something I have always wanted to do. I am doing the trek with a long-time friend who also had this walk on her 'bucket list'.

The walk has special significance for me because a number of my relatives lived and worked in and around the area from the 1930s to the 1970s on what was the Hermannsburg Mission Station. In 1937, my maternal grandmother, Bertha Pech walked part of the trail with my grandfather Hans, accompanied by a few other people and an Aboriginal guide. It is said that she was the first white grandmother to climb what was then known as Mount Sonder, now called Rwytyepme. We will be walking on Arrernte Country and will be told stories about the country we pass through from both Indigenous and white perspectives. My plan is to share my experiences of this special area of Australia in an article for the September Core. In the meantime, if you can support Act for Peace with your attendance at the Art Auction you will be most welcome.

The Trig Point on the Mount

There is a well-built circular granite cairn at the highest point on Mount Alexander. It is 744.5 metres above sea-level at the base.

This is the trigonometric point. The dictionary defines a trigonometrical point as 'a fixed point, often a point on a hilltop, whose position as the vertex of a triangle is calculated astronomically and which is used in map-making.'

The Mount Alexander Mail of 24 May 1876 reported that the geodetical survey mound, known locally as 'the flagstaff' had been erected on the top of Mount Alexander about twenty years previously, in the centre of a mound of stones. It was replaced by a solid granite cairn, with Miss Richards and Miss Matthews assisting to lay the first block, on the Queen's Birthday 1876. Evidently, Miss Richards and Miss Matthews were picnicking nearby to celebrate the holiday. The centre of the cairn is a Permanent Mark under the Survey Coordination Act. There is a similar, but very much taller, masonry cairn on the highest point of Mount Macedon. When our local cairn was first used for survey purposes, it had a centre pole supporting sighting discs and was of great importance in the accurate survey of the district roads and landholdings. The eastern boundary of Harcourt Parish is 180 metres due west of this Permanent Mark.

Councillor Comment

Hi all,

I hope this finds you well.

As I write, we are experiencing beautiful rain. Our farmers will be happy. When the farming sector is going well, all businesses seem to do well.

At the April meeting of Council there was a lot of interesting things on the agenda. Refer to the website for the minutes of the meeting.

I will mention the following: The successful Community and Events Grants were noted by Council. There are two grants rounds each year and they are a great way to get financial support for your group or event.

Council voted to support the renaming of Jim Crow Creek to Larni Barramal Yaluk.

I supported this as I see it as something Council can do to create a more inclusive and harmonious community going forward.

Of the planning matters referred to Council, one that caught my attention was the approval of a dwelling on a small block in the farming zone in Conlan's Road Taradale. There are many of these blocks around, so it will be interesting to see if more of them get approved in the future.

As mentioned previously, our 2022/23 budget is now out for comment. I look forward to seeing plenty of comments.

Best regards, Tony.

Chatting with Harcourt CWA

Harcourt CWA Upcoming Events

It's a good time to sit and chat as it is raining, and my plan for today was to drive to Bendigo to return a couple of items I bought before Easter, but it doesn't have the same appeal as it did when the sun was shining.

Which brings me to mention the Maldon Easter Parade; did you go? I have looked at the 144 photos taken in Maldon on Easter Monday and been very moved by the people who decided that a bit of rain wasn't going to spoil their parade, which was led by Jaime Thompson on her beautiful Clydesdale Jinny. Following were horse-drawn carts, vintage cars, belly dancers, a brass band, a penny farthing bicycle, lots of vintage cars, an Easter Bunny and umbrellas of every colour covering the heads of smiling people as they walked in the parade, cheered on by the enthusiastic crowd that sheltered under the shop verandahs. It really goes to show that it is up to each and every one of us not to let the falling rain spoil our own parade. But I still won't drive to Bendigo today.

So, what's happening at Harcourt CWA? Our next event to be held is the Creative Arts Exhibition – a not-to-be-missed opportunity to see what talented ladies we have in our Central Victorian CWA branches. Come along to see for yourself on Friday 13 and Saturday 14 May at the Campbells Creek Community Centre.

Hand-knitted goodies. Does it get much better than this?

And we all know the saying: 'third time lucky'. So, here we go for the third time: an afternoon talk for our Association Day with Jenny Steiner, our well-known local artist who lives at North Harcourt.

Jenny will tell us of her journey from working in graphic design and as a muralist, to the established artist she is today. Jenny's art is installed in over 50 public places, and one of her best known works in Central Victoria is her statue of St Mary of the Cross MacKillop at the Sacred Heart Cathedral in Bendigo.

WALKING TOGETHER Towards Makarrata

Makarrata is 'coming together after a struggle, facing the facts of wrongs and living again in peace.'

First Nations and Christianity

The early missionaries to many Aboriginal nations, in keeping with the 19th century view of Indigenous people as inferior, failed to distinguish between the gospel and European culture, which to them was 'civilisation'.

Within a few years of white settlement, settler society exhibited brutal and immoral treatment of Aboriginal people, and gross contradictions between Christian values and the whites' lifestyle. These and other factors, like dispossession and ill-health, led to the missionaries expecting little of First Nations people and distancing themselves from them socially.

This seriously undermined their efforts to communicate Christ's love to the First Nations people. There were exceptions of course, missionaries who not only believed in their essential humanity, but acted accordingly.

The first fleet did not transport God to Australia. Aboriginal people already knew God, under different names such as Bunjil or Baiame in south-eastern Australia, and were religious peoples who sought to relate to their environment in spiritual terms.

It was not in their nature to believe the white man was better than themselves, or to suppose the moral and religious laws imposed by them to be better than those of their own tribe.

Few of the early missions and protectorates achieved their goals, and in Victoria were replaced by Government-funded reserves or stations, particularly after the passing of the Aborigines Protection Act in 1886. Some stations were later handed back to the clans belonging to those lands, after generations had been moved from one reserve to another away from their traditional lands.

The list of converts to Christianity starts very soon after colonisation, with Thomas Bennelong, son of the famous Bennelong who was captured and Europeanised by order of Governor Phillip. Thomas learned to read the Bible in about three months, and immediately set about evangelising his own people.

Another Aboriginal evangelist was James Unaipon. He had been a translator for an itinerant missionary and later joined with other Aboriginal evangelists on missionary journeys.

His son, David Unaipon, whose face is on the $50 bill, was in his own way a spokesperson for Aboriginal advancement, proclaiming that his abilities and passion to evangelise were proof of what the Bible can do.

The activist William Cooper moved his mother and younger siblings for safety to Maloga Mission near Echuca. He learned the alphabet in only three days. He continued to learn Bible stories and hymns at prayer meetings but went across the Murray River to work on a pastoral run, as there was no employment at the Mission.

A modern day Christian, Vince Ross, founder of the Narana Aboriginal Culture Centre near Geelong, was 12 years old when he met the Salvos and encountered Christianity in its true sense, the provision of food and practical help. In essence it was already very familiar to him, from the spiritual awareness his grandparents and aunts had imbued in him. They called God Bunjil, the great creator spirit, and respected Bunjil's creation.

The Torres Strait Islanders still celebrate the Coming of the Light in 1871, when the first Christian missionaries arrived. Their culture informed their understanding of the Christian God, and the new integrated religion informed – and continues to inform – all aspects of their lives.

Their old people, holders and custodians of the culture and history and knowledge, had taught them how to monitor, observe and respect nature, so they could rely on and live in harmony with land, sea and sky.

Since colonisation, a good deal of innovation, change, development and adaptation of beliefs, myths, rites and ceremonies has been happening in Aboriginal religious systems, which are all embedded in their local individual culture and language.

Today nearly 75 per cent of Aboriginal people are Christian, which is a much higher percentage than in the non-Indigenous community, according to the Australian Board of Statistics.

Nalderun Education Aboriginal Corporation is a service that supports the Aboriginal Community, led by Aboriginal people. Many people and organisations in the Mount Alexander Shire contribute to Nalderun; the name is a Dja Dja Wurrung word meaning 'all together'.

A Warm Welcome at Harcourt Uniting Church

April has been a busy month with school holidays, Easter and Anzac long weekends. For many it has been a time for families to enjoy time together and for chocolate lovers to eat lots of Easter eggs! The weather was great for the children on holidays and no doubt the parents thought so too!

However, for some people it can be a lonely time. Our Harcourt Uniting Church Adult Fellowship group visits older people in our community each month. Our visiting includes those who are unable to come to church anymore, people in hospital as well as any local folk who simply look forward to enjoying some company and a chat. If you know of anyone who would like a visit you can contact me, Jan Jenkin on 5474 2226, and we can include them on our roster.

Easter was celebrated with a combined church service in Castlemaine on Good Friday, followed by walking the 'Way of the Cross', stopping at the different churches to read passages from the Bible telling of the Easter story. As part of our Easter Sunday church service at Harcourt, we decorated a cross with flowers; you may have seen it outside our church during that week.

The men of our church are going to be busy baking for a special morning tea after the service on Mother's Day. In recent years they have excelled themselves with their tasty cooking, the lace table cloth, a vase of flowers and by even doing the washing up.

All are welcome to join us at Harcourt Uniting Church any Sunday at 9.00 am. As winter approaches, 9.00 am can seem very early, however, we promise a warm welcome from us, as well as the welcoming warmth from the split system heating!

Little Billy was just 6 years old. One evening his mother asked him to get the mop from outside. Billy looked worried and said, 'But I'm afraid of the dark.' His mother told him not to be afraid because Jesus was everywhere and that he would protect Billy. Timidly, little Billy opened the door and, looking out into the dark he called, 'Jesus, please pass me the mop.'

Pioneering Efforts to Boost Tourism

JH Lang and the Mount Alexander Tourist Road

It was only in 1930 that a tourist road was constructed along the crest of Mount Alexander. The road was made because of a 'push' by the Castlemaine branch of the Royal Automobile Club of Victoria (RACV) at the insistence of Club Vice-President, Colonel JH Lang of Harcourt.

From the time of its formation in 1906, the official objectives of the RACV included the requirement for the Club '...to promote and encourage the improvement, construction and maintenance of roads ... to the interests and advancement of automobilism.'

In early June 1928, Mr Lang persuaded some of his colleagues in the RACV to accompany him on a pioneering excursion across the mount. To prove that it was possible, Mr Lang exhibited a photograph of his car at the trig station at the top of the mountain. His son, 24-year-old Alan Lang, accompanied by Alan's cousin, Keith Henderson, had driven his father's car to the top of the mountain, where the photo had been taken. It was considered particularly bold to attempt to drive a car through the rock-strewn bush to the mountain top. Up to that time, the summit of Mount Alexander had only been reached after a long Sunday walk.

Undeterred by the prospect of encountering a rocky outcrop or a fallen tree, and heedless of the potential to spike a tyre on a dead branch hidden in the bracken, the party was assembled. The vehicles chosen for the adventure were Mr Lang's Buick (piloted by Alan Lang, who had driven over the ground once before) and a Chevrolet (probably a 1927 Chev) which belonged to the Mayor of Castlemaine, Cr JR Duggan. With their high clearances, both types of vehicles could be driven through the bush with ease.

The intrepid men who made up the pioneering tour group were Col JH Lang, Mr AJ Lang, Mr William Eagle, Councillor JR Duggan, Mr AS Collings (Borough Surveyor) and the Hon HSW Lawson MP, former premier of Victoria. Col Lang had packed a basket of apples and afternoon tea in the back of the Buick.

Leading the way, Alan Lang turned the Buick off the road into the rock-strewn bush at the North Gap. The cars then proceeded without difficulty in a zig-zag fashion until Lang's Lookout was reached. Here the men ate the apples. Then a winding course was taken over rough forest debris between trees until they encountered a 5-wire fence. There was no gate in sight, so Col Lang uprooted a couple of posts and laid the fence on the ground. The cars drove over the fence, which was then restored to its upright position!

After a stop at Shepherd's Flat Lookout and a scramble around some granite boulders, the men drove across to the summit at the Trigonometrical Point, where afternoon tea was enjoyed.

No difficulties were encountered on the drive to Dog Rocks, although great care had to be exercised. (We assume that the cars kept to the top of the range. The present line of bitumen is somewhat to the east of the original track.) From Dog Rocks, the road was nearly level for a considerable distance until, swinging around to the south-east, the cars were able to join a track that had been constructed – amidst some controversy – fifty years earlier. This track meandered down from the Sericulture Reserve to the Faraday-Sutton Grange Rd. The cars stopped at a T-intersection at the southern end of the trek. Here, relieved to have accomplished their object, the party held a small conference. The cars were examined, congratulations were exchanged and the drivers were thanked. The party separated near the Faraday school.

In the aftermath of this daring drive, a committee was formed, called 'The Mount Alexander Improvement League' to set out the ways and means of constructing a road across the top of the mountain range. The secretary, of course, was JH Lang. In due course, the borough surveyor organised the taking of levels to ensure that the gradients would be within the capabilities of motor vehicles. At first a pedestrian track was laid out. It was felt that the proposed improvements were sure to attract motorists and holiday makers.

In the following autumn, the Improvement League staged a picnic with car races on the lower slopes of the mountain. During the next year, committee meetings were held, negotiations were conducted with the Forests Commission, and working bees cleared away a few trees.

Reports in the Castlemaine Mail and the Argus of 15 December 1930, tell us that, at the summit of Mount Alexander, in the presence of a large assembly of members of the RACV, Col JH Lang announced that five miles of road had been completed by the committee at a cost of just £23. Col Lang then welcomed the premier, Mr EJ Hogan, who officially declared the road open for traffic. The premier, standing at the foot of the granite cairn marking the summit, with a smile on his face, said that he had inaugurated several roads in his official capacity, but he now had the proud distinction of having opened the most economically constructed road ever opened.

The billy was boiled, and the ladies of Harcourt then provided afternoon tea for all present. The line-up of vehicles would have been impressive; doubtless, most of the talk over the tea and sandwiches was about the cars.

We may wonder to what extent 'the road' had been 'made'. A clue is given at the end of the December 1930 news article, which says that 'the Premier returned to Castlemaine by the track leading off the Mount to the southern end.' A lot of the clearing of fallen timber must have been carried out in a voluntary capacity. The track was unsealed for a long time after the official opening.

By way of footnote, JH Lang was a leading figure in Harcourt in the first half of the 20th century. He had been a colonel in the Militia. Langdale, the family orchard, was the premier orchard in Harcourt. JH Lang was chairman of the Harcourt Cooperative Coolstores Ltd and was a noted local preacher in the Methodist Church. As vice-president (and ultimately life member) of the RACV, JH Lang wielded real influence and achieved much in the opening up of the district to the activity which is now seen as the life-blood of the economy – tourism.

Radio Waves

The story of Community Radio in Central Victoria

The book Radio Waves, 40 years of Community Radio in Central Victoria, by Ian Braybrook, was launched on ANZAC Day at the Harcourt Bowls Club. The 'station at the station' was located at Harcourt railway station after passenger services ceased. 3CCC went to air on ANZAC Day 1982. The book celebrates and records the personalities, the challenges and achievements of the early days in community radio through to the present. The event drew a huge crowd of people who had in some way been involved with 3CCC in Harcourt or the community FM stations that followed, including KLFM, Phoenix fm, Fresh fm, and Main fm.

Maree Edwards launched the book. Given her wealth of knowledge of Central Victoria and of many of the people featured in the book, she was able to relate the talents of those involved and the history of radio in the region with a personal touch. She congratulated and thanked Ian and Marilyn for their contribution to community radio and their efforts in creating this valuable record of local radio history.

Justin Shortal as emcee put his acting skills to use and brought the house down with an original 3CCC jingle, before telling some of his personal story at 3CCC. Justin's introduction was followed by Jeff Langdon (photo below), the first station manager at 3CCC, who regaled the gathering with tales of disasters, near disasters and amazing successes achieved with very basic equipment and a huge amount of initiative and effort. He noted that many people had gone on to media and public careers, having started at 3CCC. Other speakers included Gerry Pyne, the second manager at 3CCC, Brad Geier, who began at 3CCC when he was 14 and who was instrumental in establishing KLFM, Robyn White, who was the treasurer at WMAfm, Mike Lowther from Fresh fm, Samuel Harrison from Phoenix fm and the manager of Maine fm, Steph Riddell.

The Core spoke with Marilyn and Ian after the event. Marilyn said, 'It was far bigger than expected. It brought so many friends and associates together – the room was buzzing, so we are very pleased that it was such a success.'

The number of people in attendance attested to the passion and engagement of those involved with community radio. If you want to know more about the history of local radio and the delights and challenges of volunteering in the many roles associated with radio, grab a copy of Radio Waves 40 Years of Community Radio in Central Victoria. The book is available from Marilyn Bennet: radio88@castlemaine.com, at local bookshops and at radio stations KLFM, Phoenix fm and Main fm.

Marilyn Bennet and Ian Braybrook. Marilyn opened proceedings with assistance from Ian. While Ian is the book's author, Marilyn did much background work, culminating in the production of the book through her publishing company. Ian acknowledged Marilyn's support and said, 'Without Mazza this book could not have been produced, she has looked after all the details and has been largely responsible for organising today. I can't thank her enough.'

Veteran hot rodding couple, Rod and Carol Hadfield are fans of community radio and friends of Ian Braybrook and Marilyn Bennet. Between Rod and Carol, is John Jenkins whose time in community radio began in 2007 as a technician for WMAfm. John is now the technical assistant for Radio88fm, the station Ian and Marilyn are now broadcasting with. In Radio Waves, Ian praises John's generous donation of time and talent and says he is '...an unsung hero of Castlemaine community radio.'

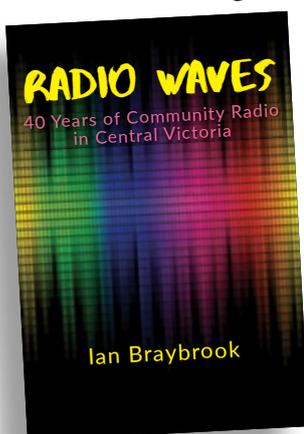

Graham Turpie (left) and David Kennedy. Graham Turpie is currently an announcer with KLFM. He has worked professionally in commercial radio at 3BO and also in journalism at the Bendigo Advertiser where he was chief of staff. David Kennedy has been presenting classical music on community radio for 36 years. Having started at 3CCC, he is now presenting his show on Phoenix Radio. In his other life, he was a teacher of Latin and Politics at Bendigo Senior Secondary School and was a state Member of Parliament for Bendigo West and the Federal Member for Bendigo.

Book Review: Radio Waves

by Ian Braybrook

Marilyn Bennet Publishing, 2022, 200pp.

A Story of Survival

The Tiger has Many Lives:
The Story of Rod Wells

Ian Braybrook, a former resident of Harcourt who became involved in community radio early, tells a story that is part autobiography, part historical record, and a rollicking serial of community life:

In the late nineteen-seventies, local community radio aficionados recognised that Harcourt, nestling beneath Mount Alexander was an ideal site to set up the now-legendary radio station 3CCC in the disused Harcourt railway station.

The words of volunteers describe permits to build a transmitter atop the Mount, sourcing equipment, installing it, obtaining a broadcast band and a licence. And it continued: a disused transmitter for a frequency change was found in Mildura. Phil Rice, a driving force is quoted: 'It must have come from up that way judging by the amount of red sand in it!'

Arguments between members who objected on environmental grounds to trimming trees interfering with the microwave link are resolved by a member who in his own words, 'Armed with a chainsaw, entered the forest just on dusk ... and solved the problem.'

Music never heard over Central Victoria airwaves was presented from treasured cassettes, LPs and even volunteers' own voices. Jeff Langdon tells a tale of a volunteer presenting a whole four-hour band program using just two CDs.

Upsets occurred. Solicitors recommended a local presenter should be stood down for her on-air finding of guilty, defendants who were currently being tried for a criminal offence.

The station had a love-hate relationship with football. Later, local footy broadcasting was introduced onto radio by beloved (late) Geoff Morris, a blind broadcaster whose commentary of on-field play was astonishing.

Outside broadcasting provided hilarious and courageous accounts, including a piece of equipment almost falling off a truck as it made its way to a venue.

Two local kids living near the radio station told a neighbour on the phone that $10,000 was to be had by simply shouting, out the front of the old railway building: 'Who do you love? ... Elvis!' As it was soundproofed, the shouters had to barge inside. But, Elvis had left the building, taking the $10K.

Community radio flourished in Central Victoria after 3CCC with KLFM, Phoenix FM, Fresh FM, and the still-comprehensive Main FM. Their stories are generously relayed.

Like any local activity, community radio has its dramas off-air. Radio Waves deals enigmatically with some. Others are still in the laundry. Ian has acknowledged many people and their roles in Community Radio. As it says on the back cover, 'You'll find it informative and enjoyable – a different approach to recording history.'

Stephen Carthew

Harcourt writer and editor Katherine Seppings of Sevenpens Publishing contacted The Core saying, 'Thanks for your interest in this POW biography I edited, designed and published for a writer in Tatura who contacted me three years ago with the beginnings of what I could see would make a great book.'

'The biography, compiled by Pamela Wells, is a remarkable tale of survival in WW2. It was a privilege to bring Lynette Ramsay Silver AM on board as the military historical adviser. After much shaping and thorough fact-checking, this story has resulted in a substantial historical work and was launched in Tatura by Tim Bowden AM.'

The Story of Rod Wells is a remarkable tale of determination, endurance and survival in WW2.

From an early age in the Goulburn Valley in Victoria, Rod Wells had a passion for wireless technology. He served in WW2 in Malaya and Singapore as an officer with 8 Division Signals. As a prisoner of war in Borneo's Sandakan, Rod joined a local underground movement. Using his ingenuity and skill he built a wireless radio and also a transmitter virtually from scratch. Arrested by the Kempeitai in 1943, Rod was subjected to brutal torture before being tried and sent to the notorious Outram Road Gaol in Singapore.

After the war, Rod Wells became a world expert in electronics and nucleonics. His story is one of extraordinary inspiration and exceptional achievements, highlighting his ability to overcome extreme hardship by never giving up.

NATIONAL 16-22 MAY 2022 VOLUNTEER Better Together WEEK

In our small community we fared somewhat better through the COVID-19 pandemic than our friends, relatives, and fellow citizens in the city. We had more freedoms and significantly less infections per head of population. But like everywhere in Australia coronavirus limited many of our social and community activities, including volunteering. In 2019 Victoria had a proud record of volunteer involvement with 42.1 percent of the population over the age of 15 volunteering their time and skills for the benefit of the community. The time spent volunteering was averaged at around four hours per week and the monetary value was estimated to be a staggering $58.1 billion.

In 2020 and 2021, however, a different picture of volunteering emerged; numbers steadily declined and the volunteer rate dropped to around 1 in 4 people. The State of Volunteering 2020 (Victoria) report states that ‘Volunteering in rural and regional Victoria is not only a way of life but essential to maintaining a variety of services. Issues for volunteering in rural towns and regional cities differ from issues in the Greater Metropolitan Melbourne area. Some of the known issues for volunteerism, in rural areas in particular, include ageing and declining populations, the higher cost of transport, lower levels of service provision and the tyranny of distance. Further research is needed to better understand how volunteering has been affected in regional and rural communities in recent years, the consequences of declining volunteerism and what the obstacles are to rebuilding or reshaping volunteering.’

This is an interesting observation in that many of the volunteer statistics now include ‘informal volunteering’ a phenomenon that round here we would simply call good neighbourliness! And whilst it is a given that some of the population is ageing, I certainly am for example, our town is also growing. We have many young families engaged in diverse forms of volunteering and given the events of the past two years we seem to be doing OK. So, if your volunteer group is back up and running and raring to go you may be interested in this year’s theme for National Volunteer Week – Better Together and some of the available collateral, including an editable certificate of appreciation, an on-line certificate suitable for emailing, or the selection of logos. Writing for The Core

Are Core readers aware that our December issue this year will be edition 100? The fact that The Core has survived since it began in 2013, and has thrived, is in no doubt because of the dedicated Core editorial and layout staff and, in particular, Robyn Miller. This year, we are looking at easing her work load and are very pleased to have relatively new Harcourt resident Michele O’Brien join our team. Nevertheless, more helpers are always appreciated even if it is just on a one-off basis. So, if you feel like you can, and want to, contribute to the production of The Core in some capacity, it will be appreciated.

I joined ‘the team’ in 2019 uncertain about how I could contribute. Since then, as well as writing a monthly article about events at HVPS, I have enjoyed interviewing local residents, finding more about them, their work and contributions to our community.

There are many Harcourt residents who I know have interesting stories to tell. Can you assist by helping someone write their story? It may sound like too much of an effort, but it need not be. I have conducted quite a few interviews of an hour, to one-and-a-half-hours, either face to face or over the phone. I take notes as I do the interview. A few days later, I send a draft of an article back to the interviewee to check and change the article as they feel necessary. After the alterations are made, off it goes to the editor usually for inclusion in The Core. If that’s not for you, but you know of someone who would like their story told, please contact The Core and request a team member to conduct an interview.

Maybe you would like to share something you are doing that could be of interest to Core readers?

Please share your stories and/or offer a hand to our editorial committee.

Supporting Volunteers

Volunteers don't always just happen. We know that it takes time, energy and sometimes money to recruit, train, monitor and retain volunteers. So, once you have them, you want their tasks and roles to be as efficient as possible. Community Bank Maldon & District can help with that.

Not only do we offer community grants and partnership funds for a range of different projects and programs, but we also have a number of items available to not-for-profit and community groups to try and make the life of a volunteer easier!

Our marquees (with or without wind-break walls), our hand sanitising stations and the Community POS (portable eftpos machine), are offered free to local community groups and not-for-profits. Shane Renfrey, Treasurer of Barkers Creek Cricket Club said, 'We are grateful to Community Bank Maldon & District as we have taken them up on the offer for a hand sanitising station, which has been ideal for events and regular sports meetings at the Barkers Creek Hall. We have used it, not only for our cricket game days, but also, it has been so good to have it available for functions like funerals and parties. It looks so much more professional than just having a bottle of sanitiser on the bar and means that you can move it around to where it is needed.'

The Community POS is a portable, fee-free eftpos machine that we make available. Maldon Primary School has borrowed the Community POS several times for the annual Shopping Spree. Debra Watson, Maldon Primary School Business Manager, said 'Our school doesn't have an eftpos facility, so the ability to borrow one for fundraising events is awesome. It enables volunteers to collect money on the spot rather than waiting for attendees to go and get cash or do a bank transfer. It also means that the school inevitably makes more money on our silent auction items as attendees have the ability to pay using a card rather than cash – after all, who carries cash these days? Thank you Maldon and District Community Bank for making the lives of our volunteers easier!

Free marketing resources

If you are a volunteer who is responsible for marketing your club or not-for-profit you should consider downloading the free e-resource available from the Community Bank. This resource was put together by the Communications team and has a range of helpful information in it from software and online platforms for designing flyers and social media posts to tips for taking good photos. You can get this free download by scanning the QR code here:

[maldoncb.com.au/marketing-resources]

If you think your organisation could use any of these items, please contact the staff at any of our Community Bank branches – Maldon, Newstead or Dunolly.

Thank you, Volunteers

It's National Volunteer Week on 16–22 May, and we want to thank all the wonderful volunteers who do so much for our community.

They help to plan and coordinate events, are trusted companions to some of our most vulnerable community members, help us to manage sports and recreation reserves, improve our environment, and welcome visitors to our shire with a smile.

We're partnering with Volunteer Central Vic to hold a free community forum, 'Volunteering is for Everyone', which aims to understand and address the barriers to participation.

Forum: Friday 20 May, 9.30am–12.30pm, Castlemaine Senior Citizens Centre.

End of Term 1 Wrap Up

Students and staff at HVPS had a very busy last week or so of first term. On Tuesday 29 March, the House Cross Country Carnival was held at the school. Families were able to attend this event. At the event, 17 students aged from 8 to 12 years qualified to be part of the Goldfields/Sandhurst Cross Country Championships and Fun Run, which will be held in Bendigo on 4 May.

In the afternoon on Tuesday 5 April, Ms Parkhill organised for students to meet a number of community volunteers from around the district to hear them relate the crucial role they play in our community. Members of the SES, CFA, Lions Club, RSL and Mount Alexander Shire were in attendance.

On the 6 April, students supported Ms Rowland's efforts to raise money for the Leukemia Foundation. She had her hair shaved as part of the World's Greatest Shave fundraising day. Students showed their support choosing to wear casual clothes and/or have crazy hair. They also contributed to the fundraising effort by donating a gold coin to the Leukemia Foundation.

Grace Church

The Significance of Easter

Undoubtedly, the most significant event on the Christian calendar each year is Easter, closely followed by Christmas. Easter is all about the death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Each year, Grace Church joins with other churches from Castlemaine in a procession known as 'The Way of the Cross.' The procession proceeds from St Mary's Church and winds its way around the Castlemaine CBD. Each of the churches in Castlemaine is deemed to be a station of the cross and, additionally, some civic sites.

This year, the procession was ably led, music wise, by Rev Ian Howarth of the Anglican Church. Thus, we found ourselves singing well known standards such as 'Amazing Grace' in addition to the Catholic Church's chant 'Jesus, remember me,' which is based upon the utterance of the penitent thief crucified with Jesus, who uttered the words 'Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom.' Jesus replied, 'I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise.'

There was one particular song that stood out for me this year. It was the American spiritual, 'Were you there when they crucified my Lord?' I found myself tearing up on both of the occasions it was sung, as I sensed the anointing of the Holy Spirit upon that song at that moment.

You see, metaphorically speaking, I was there when Jesus was crucified. As a Christian, I believe that at that moment he paid the price for all sins that have ever been committed in the past, are being committed at present, and shall be committed in the future. It is as we receive that sacrifice with a penitent heart, by grace and through faith, that we are 'saved.' The forgiveness of sins and eternal life is ours for evermore. Happy Easter!

Castlemaine-based company, Mindfit at Work are facilitating the workshops, which will focus on helping people be healthier, happier, and more efficient at work.

The three one-hour workshops will take place on Tuesday 31 May and aim to help small businesses navigate the impact of current world events on the day-to-day lives of their employees.

Mount Alexander Shire Council's Manager of Economy and Culture, Merryn Tinkler, is excited to see workshops addressing the widespread stress and fatigue experienced as a result of the pandemic.

"Looking after the mental health and wellbeing of ourselves and our staff is more important now than ever," said Ms Tinkler.

"We're excited to bring you a series of workshops that focus on both caring for yourself and those around you."

Date: Tuesday 31 May

Time: 9.30am–1.30pm

Location: Castlemaine Goods Shed, 11 Kennedy Street, Castlemaine

Cost: $20 (inclusive of all three sessions)

Catering: nibbles and light refreshments provided

Compassion Fatigue (one hour)

Compassion fatigue is physical and mental exhaustion that many employers are experiencing after caring for their anxious employees over the past two years.

In this session, MindFit at Work will teach you how to:

- identify signs that others are not coping
- support your teammates and clients
- practice self-care by setting personal boundaries.

Managing Burnout Fatigue (one hour)

Burnout fatigue, like compassion fatigue, leads to physical and mental exhaustion. The global pandemic has left both employers and employees in need of rest and workplace flexibility.

In this session, MindFit at Work will teach you how to:

- restore enthusiasm and energy in your teams
- set aside time each day to replenish yourself
- implement fatigue-busting hacks.

#Hack Your Performance (one hour)

Bursts of energy come for different people at different times of the day. Sometimes one hour is enough time to finish an entire project, and sometimes only a few emails can be sent in that time.

In this session, MindFit at Work will teach you how to:

- create a schedule that utilises your most productive working hours
- replenish your brain at regular intervals
- manage your time more effectively
- use the Pomodoro technique.

(SEE PICTORIAL SECTION.)

Travelling by rail or highway to Bendigo few travellers realise that they are passing through the largest apple-growing district of the State. One can safely say that no better or finer flavoured apples are grown in Australia. Harcourt is about five miles from Castlemaine, and situated in a valley surrounded by hills. From Mount Alexander on the east side and the Rockies toward the north-east a magnificent view is obtained of the Goulburn Valley, and in the other direction the view extends toward Ballarat. Harcourt township is not imposing, and the passing tourist would easily miss it, but a visit to the station on a working day would convince one that it is a very busy centre. At the present time a special train daily is needed for the transport of export apples.

The record season this year will reach nearly 1,000,000 cases, of which 500,000 cases will be exported. Most of the fruit is packed in the two packing-sheds situated near the station, and adjacent to the cool stores, which hold 80,000 cases. The Fruit-growers' Association shed is the largest apple-packing shed in Australia; the expected output is 60,000 to 80,000 cases. There are 30 packers and 40 shed hands employed. All cases are made up in the shed, and 90 per cent. of the Canadian standard cases are used. Packers' earnings are averaging from £1 to £1/5/ a day.

When the s.s. Ballarat left it took a record shipment from Harcourt—20,000 cases—but subsequent loadings have reached 26,000 cases. Heavy crops this year have made it necessary to provide the trees with props to hold up the laden limbs, highly decorative with their brightly coloured fruit. Branching off the main Bendigo road, passing through miles of orchard country, the granite quarries are reached from which the famous grey Harcourt granite is obtained. Beyond is a State pine plantation; some of the trees have been thinned out and used for cases. A number of the younger orchards are just coming into bearing. Within a few years, and given good seasons, Harcourt will be a valuable asset to Australia, and should possess great attraction to tourists. Some of the old pioneers who came to the district over 80 years ago, carting their young fruit trees by dray from Melbourne, least expected to see the district make such great progress.

Katie Finlay's Fruit Growing Tips

Autumn Tasks in the Orchard

Hi everyone,

It's time to be thinking about whether you'll be planting any new fruit trees this winter and, honestly, why wouldn't you? (There's always room for one more, right?) It's too early to be planting yet, but it's definitely time to be doing some soil preparation if you want to give your trees the best possible start in life. One of the quickest and most effective ways to improve your soil is to plant a winter-active green manure crop. Consider using a mix of a legume, for example peas, broad beans, fava beans, sub-clover etc (to add nitrogen to the soil); a grass, such as oats, wheat or barley (to add bulk organic matter) and a few herbs or other plants, like mustards, brassicas or fenugreek (to add more nutrients). You can either buy an autumn green manure seed mix from a nursery or buy the individual seeds to make up your own mix. We seem to have had the autumn break (fingers crossed), so as long as we keep getting bits of rain you shouldn't have to water the crop.

Go ahead and plant the green manure seed wherever you intend to plant your fruit trees, but you need to do it ASAP. New trees don't actually get planted until winter, when they're dormant. Planting usually takes place from late June or the start of July in Harcourt, right through until about mid-August. That means there should still be enough time to get a green manure crop growing and for it to be tall enough to be fit for purpose, which is solely to add organic bulk and nutrients back into the soil. You need to get your skates on, because the longer the crop has to grow before it's turned in, the better. Once it's grown you can either dig the green manure into the soil (which is best), or just cut it down and leave it lying on the surface. If you're digging it in, you need to leave a gap of at least a couple of weeks until you plant the trees, because the green manure can get quite hot as it breaks down.

If you don't have the time or inclination to plant a green manure crop, it doesn't matter at all! Don't let your lack of soil preparation stop you planting trees this year. You could add some well-made compost or aged manure when you plant the trees. If you can't manage that, it's much better to just plant trees into whatever soil you have and work on the soil improvement later, rather than miss another year of getting your future fruit supply started.

Heritage Trees Aid Biodiversity

Carr's Organic Fruit Tree Nursery (one of the businesses here on our farm) is once again selling trees grown right here in Harcourt, to suit Harcourt soil and conditions. We have our best range ever, with more than 250 different varieties and combinations available this year. We specialise in heritage varieties, multigraft trees (with more than one variety of the same fruit type) and fruit salad trees (more than one type of fruit on the same tree).

We're aiming to bring back and preserve as many old heritage varieties as possible, before they completely disappear. You can help to save this important biodiversity by adding a variety you've never heard of to your garden this year! Here's the link to see the full list and place an order: openfoodnetwork.org.au/carrs-organic-fruit-tree-nursery/shop. You'll be able to collect your trees from our Nursery Open Days on the first two weekends of July (all the details are in the checkout section).

As fruit fly has been found in Harcourt again this season, here is a reminder that we offer free fruit fly resources in our online shop. To download a copy, go to growgreatfruit.com/online-courses and choose 'FREE STUFF' under Product Categories on the right hand side of the screen. It's up to all of us to become fruit fly experts!

Growing Seedlings from Seed

If you'd rather try growing your own trees from scratch than buying them from a nursery, then now is a great time to collect fresh apple, pear and quince seed. Choose seeds that are dark brown and plump. Granny Smith apples or Packham pears are usually a reliable source of seed, but it's fine to use whatever varieties you can get your hands on. The seeds will produce large seedling rootstocks that are tough and resilient and perfect for grafting your favourite variety on to. Once you've collected the seed, store it in damp sand over winter, ready to plant out next spring.

Hugh and Katie Finlay are certified organic orchardists and offer Grow Great Fruit organic home fruit growing courses. They're also founding members of the Harcourt Organic Farming Co-op. Head to growgreatfruit.com to sign up for their Free Weekly Fruit Tips newsletter and register for free online workshops.

25 Years of Landcare in Harcourt

The Tollgate Park sign (opposite the CFA) marks the entry to a walk beside Barkers Creek leading to the picnic area. Harcourt Valley Landcare was responsible for funding and organising the construction of the bridge which leads to the walk. The area has historical significance in that it was the original crossing into Harcourt over Barkers Creek, and a toll had to be paid.

Landcare President Bonnie Humphreys is shown cutting the ribbon for the Tollgate Park sign in May 2017. The design and production of the sign was done by past member Trevor McKay, who also created the logo for the group as well as designing other signage and construction work.

On Sunday September 25, Harcourt Valley Landcare will celebrate 25 years of projects and fellowship in Harcourt with a get-together of current and past members at Leanganook on Mount Alexander. A guest speaker and activities will be a feature of the morning. If you are interested in Landcare or Readers may remember that in 2019 I wrote a story about a young goshawk taking over our garden during summer. The parents were there initially, but left, and the young goshawk learnt to fend for itself.

The Killer is back

The last time I saw it and photographed it in 2019, it was on the ground with a kill. This week I have again seen a goshawk in the garden. I saw it on the ground near the house with a kill one day. The next day, on going outside, I heard the clamour of frightened small birds. There was the goshawk perched in a tree next to the house, with the little birds, on the fringes of the tree, making as much fuss as they could. The goshawk sat unmoved, by the birds or by me, as I photographed it.
